DIMENSIONS® BRIDGING PROGRAM
(for previously qualified temperament users)

Researched and developed in Canada since 2003, Personality Dimensions® represents the next level of development in implementing temperament personality theory and is based on the work of Linda Berens, David Keirse and Don Lowry. This new, dynamic tool is a culmination of the research and validation work and development that has been done in Canada to support the use of temperament theory. Based on leading-edge research into human motivation and behaviour, this communication tool explains what motivates positive behaviour in different personalities/temperaments. This new, interactive human relations and communications model/process enhances the basic values of self-esteem, dignity and self-worth.

In the working world, Personality Dimensions® can be applied and integrated a number of ways. Where effective training and development is essential for meeting strategic objectives – an understanding of personality or temperament theory is a very effective tool in facilitating team creation and building; in corporate communications; and in enhancing customer service and satisfaction, providing innovative solutions to problems by tapping into the creative energy of every temperament type, to enable them to quickly adapt to rapidly changing conditions. Personality Dimensions® promotes the acquisition of tools and techniques for engaging different personality types in the creative problem solving process.

Personality Dimensions® Bridging Program is ideal for individuals who are already qualified as temperament/personality theory facilitators. The half-day bridging workshop will get you up-to-speed on the research and development that has gone into the creation of Personality Dimensions® as well as the process and the new materials and components. Upon completion of this introductory program, participants will be considered qualified at a level equal to their previous designation.

During this half-day interactive workshop, participants will:

- Explore and understand the development rationale
- Delve into the research and theoretical background of the model and instrument
- Discover the key components involved in the administration and interpretation of the tool
- Experience first-hand the delivery of Personality Dimensions® from two perspectives
- Expand your ability to customize your work with your clients by learning about its various applications
